

Navtech wins 2nd Chamber of Commerce honour

Innovation Technology Award

Waterloo, November 4, 2008 – Navtech is pleased to announce that it has again received a Chamber of Commerce honour, the Innovation Technology Award from the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. The award is presented to the company that is a Chamber member company, in good standing, and who best demonstrates the creation of innovative products which have resulted in significant and measurable increases in revenue, job creation, productivity and/or improvement in service. David Strucke, Navtech President & CEO, was present with Management and Staff to accept the award.

"This year more than ever we must give credit to the firms that are investing in innovation, improving productivity and creating jobs in our communities," says Len Crispino, President and CEO of the OCC. "It always takes hard work and creativity to succeed in business, but in today's economic climate, resiliency and triumph are that much more worthy of recognition."

Navtech was solely highlighted in the Innovation category yet the evening included five other award categories. Jann Arden hosted the gala and over 1,000 business and political figures were expected to attend. The awards were open to Ontario wide nominations from other Chamber of Commerce chapters.
